Preamble

The Education (General Provisions) Act 2006 (Qld) (the "Act") provides for the establishment and operation of school councils for state schools with the object of improving student learning outcomes.

The Act states that school councils must have a constitution. The Chief Executive has prepared this model constitution, including elements required under the Act, as well as additional matters.

The Chief Executive or delegate authorised under the Delegation of Director-General's Powers under Education (General Provisions) Act 2006 may establish a school council for a state school by notice in the gazette.

A school council may prepare and adopt an amendment of its constitution, however, in doing so, it must have regard to the model constitution. An amendment will have no effect unless it is approved by the Chief Executive or their delegate.

The constitution is broadly worded to allow each school council autonomy to conduct their business in ways that they consider appropriate. A school council makes decisions about how it will carry out its functions at council meetings at which a quorum for the council is present. Amendments to the constitution are not necessary to enable these functions.

- Eligibility to be nominated and to vote in an election for elected members of the school council is not restricted to existing members of the school council.
- The following people are eligible to be nominated and to vote at an election for elected members:
 - For elected parent member elections, a parent of a child at the school.
 - For elected staff member elections, all the persons who are employed by the Department of Education and assigned to the school or otherwise employed full-time or part-time at the school for which the council is established.

Staff and parent election process

- For staff and parent elections, the official members must appoint a returning officer for the election.
- The returning officer must give public notice (e.g. school newsletter) of the holding of an election by secret ballot not less than 28 days before the date of the election.
- The notice must state:
 - the date of the election;

 - who is eligible to vote;
 - how voting is to be carried out (distribution and return of ballot papers)

- The final date for receipt of nominations in writing to the returning officer must not be less than 14 days after the date of giving of the public notice and not less than 14 days prior to the date of the election.
- After the final date for receipt of nominations, the returning officer must, without unreasonable delay, prepare voting papers by setting out the names of the candidates in an order determined by lot.
- At the meeting at which the election is to be conducted, the returning officer must give a voting paper to every person entitled to vote at the election. The returning officer must record the name of each person to whom a voting paper is given at the meeting at which the election is conducted.
- Each voter must deposit their completed voting paper into a sealed ballot box before leaving the meeting.

- The returning officer must take such steps as considered necessary to ensure that only persons entitled to vote at an election have voted and that the secrecy of the ballot is preserved.
- If there are fewer nominations than required elected members, then the nominees are elected

Post ballot procedures

- Each candidate may appoint by written notice to the returning officer, one scrutineer for the examination of the voting papers received by the returning officer, to be present when the returning officer opens the ballot box containing the voting papers on the day of the election.
- A notice of an appointment of a scrutineer by a candidate must be received by the returning officer not less than 5 days prior to the day of the election.
- No election is invalid by reason of the failure of any candidate to appoint a scrutineer or the failure of a person appointed as a scrutineer to carry out the duties of a scrutineer.
- After the meeting at which the election was conducted and on the day of the election, the returning officer must, in the presence of the scrutineers but not the candidates, and with the aid of any assistants who are not candidates, open the ballot box containing the voting papers.
- If, in examining a voting paper, the returning officer forms the opinion that the intention of the voter cannot with certainty be ascertained, the voting paper must be rejected by the returning officer and no votes on that voting paper may be counted.
- If, in examining a voting paper, the returning officer forms the opinion that a vote is indicated on other than a voting paper in the form approved by the returning officer, the vote must not be counted.
- If, in examining the voting papers, the returning officer forms the opinion that:
 - i) the number of voting papers in the ballot box is not equal to the number of persons who have been recorded as having voted in the election; or
 - ii) any voting paper has been altered or otherwise interfered with after being placed in the ballot box and prior to the ballot box being opened by the returning officer or at the returning officer's instruction, the returning officer must declare the ballot to be invalid and make arrangements for the holding of another ballot to determine the result in the election.

- After examining the voting papers, the returning officer must ascertain the number of votes received by each candidate.
- The candidate who receives, or the candidates who receive more votes than any other candidates in the election must be declared by the returning officer to have won the election.
- Where two or more candidates have received an equal number of votes, the returning officer must determine by lot which of the candidates is to be declared elected.

Declaration of result

- When the returning officer has determined which of the candidates is to be declared elected, he or she must prepare, sign and date a written statement, which may be countersigned by any scrutineers who are present, containing the numbers in words as well as figures of the votes for each candidate and declaring the result of the election.

No election is invalid by reason of:

- any formal error or defect in any declaration made, or in giving public notice under this constitution
